Active Intelligence and Consensus Consulting Provide IT Business Solutions for the SME Marketplace

London, 28 February 2006 – Active Intelligence, a hardware and solutions provider today announced a new strategic partnership with Consensus Consulting, an International IT management and services consultancy. The partnership will bring together Active Intelligence’s hardware delivery and support capability with the IT management and operations services expertise from Consensus Consulting.

Since inception Active Intelligence has carefully selected hardware and software products to ensure that they are effective, feature-rich and stable - and perhaps most importantly, provided in conjunction with specialized partners. The partnership with Consensus Consulting extends their capabilities by providing technologies and infrastructure solutions developed in a global marketplace.

Active Intelligence is also dedicated to providing open solutions to meet the challenges of doing business in today’s competitive environment, with hardware solutions targeted towards the Financial Services, Government, Retail, Wholesale, Distribution and Utilities markets. Active Intelligence is committed to keeping Clients informed of emerging technologies and their effects on Information Systems to ensure that they are well positioned to gain maximum advantage from available technologies.

Gary Munroe, Chief Executive for Active Intelligence comments, “We are pleased to have Consensus Consulting Limited as a valued business partner, this will allow us to jointly develop key technical and business solutions for customers both in the United Kingdom and Internationally and continues our emphasis on providing Clients with open ended flexible solutions that enable them to integrate new technologies.”

“Active Intelligence adds a new dimension to the Consensus Consulting Limited’s capability to offer tailored IT solutions, specifically within the SME and Managed Services arena. Active Intelligence has invested in delivering a range of highly robust and cost effective hardware platforms which is fundamental to our ability to provide customised solutions to support our Business ConceptSM range of services at a time when customers are looking for value for money.” said Alan Henderson, CEO of Consensus Consulting. “Through the unique combination of Active Intelligence’s infrastructure delivery capability and our Management and Operations Consultancy Services, we have a total solution offering maximum availability and efficiency for the SME and Managed Services clients.”
